HEALTH / MEDICINE

In Hippocrasy, two world-leading doctors – rheumatologist and epidemiologist Rachelle Buchbinder and orthopaedic surgeon Ian Harris – reveal the true state of modern medicine and how doctors are letting their patients down. They argue that the benefits of treatments are often wildly overstated and the harms understated. That overtreatment and overdiagnosis are rife. And the medical system is not fit for purpose: designed to deliver health care not health.

This powerful exposé blows the lid off everything from rampant overdiagnosis and overtreatment (revealing the tests, drugs and treatment that provide no benefit for the patient), to the role of Big Pharma and the inherent problem of a medical system based on treating rather than preventing illness. The book also provides tips to empower patients and solutions to help restructure how medicine is delivered so doctors can live up to their Hippocratic Oath.

PROFESSOR RACHELLE BUCHBINDER AO is a physician specialising in rheumatology and a clinical epidemiologist. She is known internationally as a vocal proponent of evidence-based medicine and her landmark studies that have evaluated treatments that have been accepted into practice prior to their proper evaluation. She was awarded an Officer of the Order of Australia (AO) for services to epidemiology and rheumatology in 2020.

PROFESSOR IAN HARRIS AM is an orthopaedic surgeon and Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery. He is known internationally for his research and his support of evidence-based practice. He is the author of Surgery, the Ultimate Placebo, has higher degrees in evidence-based medicine and surgical outcomes and was awarded a Member of the Order of Australia (AM) for service to orthopaedic surgery.

CHILDREN / POPULAR SCIENCE / ASTRONOMY

Why do stars twinkle? How's the best way to start spotting constellations and comets? Is there life beyond Earth? What's the chance of a catastrophic collision with a killer asteroid?

He's covered the big space questions for adults, now Australia's very own Astronomer-at-Large Fred Watson embarks on a grand tour of the Universe especially for children. From stargazing to telescopes, space travel to black holes, killer asteroids to aliens, Fred covers every question kids might ask about space – and then some!

With incredible illustrations by Fred himself, and a quirky mix of mind-boggling facts, Space Warp is a fascinating book that kids will love – and parents and friends will undoubtedly learn a thing or two as well!

FRED WATSON is Australia's first Astronomer-at-Large. Recognised internationally for helping to pioneer the use of fibre optics in astronomy during the 1980s, Fred is best known today for his radio and TV broadcasts, books, and other ventures, which have earned him many awards. He even has an asteroid named after him (5691 Fredwatson), but says that if it hits the Earth, it won't be his fault.

PERSONAL ESSAYS / CRITICAL RACE STUDIES

There is a Turkish saying that one's home is not where one is born, but where one grows full – doğduğun yer, doyduğun yer.

Mixing the personal and political, Eda Gunaydin's bold and innovative writing explores race, class, gender and violence, and Turkish diaspora – both in Australia and round the world – in her compelling debut.

Equal parts piercing, tender and funny, this book takes us from an overworked and underpaid café job in Western Sydney, the mother-daughter tradition of sharing a meal in the local kebab shop, a night clubbing with Turkish students, to the legacies of family migration, and intergenerational trauma within a history of violence and political activism.

For readers of Ta-Nehisi Coates and Durga Chew-Bose, Eda Gunaydin seeks to unsettle neat descriptions of migration and diaspora. How should we address a racist remark on the 2AM night ride bus? What does the Turkish diaspora of Auburn in Western Sydney have in common with Neukölln in Berlin? And how can we look to past suffering to imagine a new future?

EDA GUNAYDIN is a Turkish-Australian writer. She writes bilingually, in English and Turkish. She has obtained numerous shortlistings, awards and fellowships, including the 2018-2019 Dinny O'Hearn fellow at the University of Melbourne. She has spoken at numerous writer's festivals including Sydney Writers' Festival, and has published in The Lifted Brow, Overland, Voiceworks, Sydney Review of Books, Meanjin, and more. AUSTRALIAN HISTORY

Australia and the Pacific offers an exciting new way of looking at Australian history. It examines Australia's story in a Pacific context; from the nation's relationship with neighbours Papua New Guinea, Tahiti and New Zealand to its complex ties with China, Japan and the United States.

This deep narrative history begins with the shifting of the continents which created the ocean itself to the coming of the first Australians and, thousands of years later, the Europeans who dispossessed them. The book explores the colonists' attempts to exploit the riches of the region to their desire to separate 'white Australia' from the Asians, Melanesians and Polynesians who surrounded them, while bringing to light how the advent of modern human rights and the creation of the UN after World War Two changed Australia. Examining Australia's attempts to negotiate the complex post-war world and moves to decolonisation, Australia & the Pacific also discusses the offshore detention of asylum seekers, the current debates over climate change and Australia's responsibilities towards its threatened neighbours.

CULTURE / SOCIETY / TECHNOLOGY

Everything that makes us human – from our brains and bodies to our values and ways of life – is about to be transformed or superseded. Whether we embrace it or not.

The world is changing in rapid and disruptive ways – radical life extension, the merging of human and machine intelligence, sexbots and the post-work economy await. But we've got ape brains in a modern world, with tribal instincts and short-term thinking getting in the way of democracy, diplomacy and effective action on major issues like the climate emergency. And our Palaeolithic brains are making us miserable in our daily lives with rising rates of depression and anxiety.

In Future Superhuman Elise Bohan, an exciting new voice in transhumanism, argues that we should actively aspire to leave humanity behind and become superhuman, embracing medical breakthroughs that will mean we might not have to die for a really long time. Co-evolve with AI to be radically smarter, freed from 'the constraints of our own biological meatsacks' and with memories enhanced by supercomputers. We might even become our own progeny.

ELISE BOHAN completed a PhD in Modern History at Macquarie University in November 2018. In the past few years she has been a contributor to the popular digital publication Big Think and The Griffith Review. She has published several book chapters on Big History and transhumanism and wrote the introduction to the popular Dorling Kindersley book Big History (2016). Elise has written and presented video lectures on artificial intelligence for Macquarie University's Big History Institute and is regularly invited to present at academic conferences and public events, including the Australian Academy of the Humanities Annual Symposium and the Writing NSW Speculative Fiction Festival.

AUSTRALIAN HISTORY / MILITARY HISTORY

Scrupulously researched and evocatively written, in Edith Blake's War her great niece tells the story of the only Australian nurse killed in action in World War I.

In the early hours of 26 February 1918, the British hospital ship Glenart Castle steamed into the Bristol Channel, heading for France to pick up wounded men from the killing fields of the Western Front. Onboard was 32-year-old Australian nurse, Edith Blake. After being torpedoed by a German U-boat, the Glenart Castle took minutes to sink. Of the 182 onboard, 153 perished including all eight nurses.

After missing out on joining the Australian Army, in 1915 Edith Blake was one of 130 Australian nurses allocated to the Queen Alexandra's Imperial Nursing Service by the British government. In very personal letters to her family back home Edith shares her homesickness, frustration with military rules, and the culture shock of Egypt. In Edith Blake's War, her great niece Krista Vane-Tempest traces Edith's story from training in Sydney to her war service in the Middle East and the Mediterranean; her conflicted feelings about nursing German prisoners of war as German aircraft bombed England, to her death in waters where Germany had promised the safe passage of hospital ships.

KRISTA VANE-TEMPEST studied law, English, history and politics at the Australian National University then worked as a lawyer before starting to write. She is a volunteer guide at the Australian War Memorial and lives in Canberra with her husband and three children.

POPULAR CULTURE / PODCASTING / JOURNALISM

A book that explains what makes the best podcasts so good and how you too can make a great one.

The rise of podcasts has been exponential. An audio format that was largely unknown until recently now fills the lives of millions of listeners who can get on with other things at the same time. Podcasts have become an essential part of popular culture, and a new way to absorb information that once might have been read in newspapers, books, magazines or part of current affairs radio. Indeed, many media platforms also have their own accompanying podcasts and radio has remade itself by becoming 'podcastable'.

In this original book, Siobhan McHugh – an award-winning podcast creator and teacher – dissects what makes a good podcast and outlines how it is done. How do you tell a complicated and compelling story through sound? How can journalists and newspapers use podcasts? How can organisations big and small use podcasting to get their message out? Packed with case studies, examples, tips and techniques, this is the first and most authoritative book of its kind. It's so good, it will probably become a podcast.

DR SIOBHAN MCHUGH is a journalist, academic and writer who has produced acclaimed podcasts with The Age (Melbourne) and the Australian Broadcasting Corporation that have won many awards, including four gold at the New York Radio Festival. She was consulting producer on the hit podcasts Phoebe's Fall, Wrong Skin and The Last Voyage of the Pong Su, advising on script, craft and production. She hosted and produced the gold award-winning podcast Heart of Artness, about cross-cultural aspects of Aboriginal art. Siobhan is a prominent researcher, teacher and analyst of podcasting as a new media genre. She is founding editor of RadioDoc Review, the world's first journal devoted to critical analysis of podcast and audio features. In a pre-podcasting era, Siobhan was a noted radio documentary maker and writer. Her award-winning books include The Snowy: A History (reissued by NewSouth, 2019) and Minefields and Miniskirts, about Australian women's involvement in the Vietnam War, which was adapted as a musical.

FOOD / MEMOIR / BODY POSITIVITY

Eating with My Mouth Open is food writing like you've never seen before: honest, bold, and exceptionally tasty. Sam van Zweden's personal and cultural exploration of food, memory, and hunger revels in body positivity, dissects wellness culture and all its flaws, and shares the joys of being part of a family of chefs.

Celebrating food and all the bodies it nurtures, Eating with My Mouth Open considers the true meaning of nourishment within the broken food system we live in. Not holding back from difficult conversations about mental illness, weight, and wellbeing, Sam van Zweden advocates for body politics that are empowering, productive, and meaningful.

'This is writing as sustenance.' — Maria Tumarkin, (Axiomatic)

'Heartfelt, intelligent and full of love.'
— Fiona Wright (Small Acts of Disappearance)

'Made me fall in love with food all over again.'
— Ruby Tandoh (Eat Up!)

'Sam van Zweden cuts through the bullshit, arguing that food is for love, and that if we love food, we must love the bodies that food nurtures. Van Zweden is a masterful caretaker of the bodies that have been left out.' — Ellena Savage (Blueberries)

SAM VAN ZWEDEN is a Melbourne-based writer interested in memory, mental health and the body. Her writing has appeared in the Saturday Paper, Meanjin, The Big Issue, The Lifted Brow, Cordite, the Sydney Review of Books, The Wheeler Centre and others. Eating with My Mouth Open won the 2019 KYD Unpublished Manuscript Award. Her work has been shortlisted for the Scribe Nonfiction Prize for Young Writers, the Lifted Brow and RMIT non/fictionLab Prize for Experimental Non-Fiction, and the Lord Mayor's Creative Writing Awards.

'One minute you're a 15-year-old girl who loves Netflix and music and the next minute you're looked at as maybe ISIS.'

We now have a generation – Muslim and non-Muslim – who has grown up only knowing a world at war on terror, and who has been socialised in a climate of widespread Islamophobia, surveillance and suspicion.

In Coming of Age in the War on Terror, award-winning writer Randa Abdel-Fattah interrogates the impact of all this on young people's political consciousness and their trust towards adults and the societies they live in. Drawing on local interviews but global in scope, this book is the first to examine the lives of a generation for whom the rise of the far-right and the growing polarisation of politics seem normal. It's about time we hear what they have to say.

'An urgent book for our time.' — Tony Birch

'Excoriating the hypocrisy of neoliberal social interventionist policies, Abdel-Fattah has given us a rich and important work, as moving in its sincerity as it is unprecedented in its scope.' — Daniel Nour, Books+Publishing

'The book should be praised for its depth and breadth of insights into Australia, as we see contemporary Islamophobia in the shade of the War on Terror revealed.' — Dr Asim Qureshi, Research Director, CAGE (UK)

'Full of sharp wit ... accessible and deeply moving.'
— Amanda Wise

DR RANDA ABDEL-FATTAH is a well-known writer and scholar who is currently a Postdoctoral Research Fellow in the Department of Sociology at Macquarie University, Sydney. ‘At both ends of the world, I have found confusion and profound disagreement about how to read the story of the past, about who should write or speak it, and what parts of it should be written or spoken about at all.’

Amnesia Road is a compelling literary examination of historic violence in rural areas of Australia and Spain. It is also an unashamed celebration of the beautiful landscapes where this violence has been carried out. Travelling and writing across two locations – the seldom-visited mulga plains of south-west Queensland and the backroads of rural Andalusia – award-winning Australian Hispanist Luke Stegemann uncovers neglected history and its many neglected victims, and asks what place such forgotten people have in contemporary debates around history, nationality, guilt and identity.

‘Daring and original: an eloquent and moving meditation on place, memory and history.’
— Mark McKenna

‘This book will come to be regarded as a classic of Australian literature.’ — Nicolas Rothwell

‘Amnesia Road swept me away in lyrical storytelling, though veiled inside is a brutally complex shared history exposing the deliberate annihilation of the relationship between landscapes and their kin.’ — Brook Andrew

LUKE STEGEMANN is an Hispanist and cultural historian based in rural south-east Queensland. He has held senior positions in media, publishing and higher education in Australia, Europe and Asia. The French have been integral to the Australian story since European colonisation. Escaped convicts from New Caledonia, wool buyers from Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing, gold-diggers, artisans, teachers and café owners, they were not always the crème de la crème.

French Connection provides a fascinating insight into how the culture of Frenchness influenced a new nation anxious to prove itself to the world. What did Australian colonists see when they looked to France? How much did the French presence in the Pacific loom over such ideas? And what did the French in Australia themselves make of it all?

Alexis Bergantz uncovers the little known and often surprising history of the French in nineteenth-century Australia and their role in creating a more connected and cosmopolitan nation.

ENVIRONMENT / AUSTRALIAN HISTORY

No matter where you look in Australia, you're more than likely to see a eucalyptus tree. Scrawny or majestic, smooth as pearl or rough as a pub brawl, they have defined a continent for thousands of years, and they continue to shape our imagination.

First Nations' Australians have long known the abilities of the eucalyptus. And as part of the raft of changes wrought by the arrival of colonial Australia, botanists have battled in a race to count, classify and own the species – a battle that has lasted more than two hundred years.

Gum is the story of that battle and of so many other eucalyptographers – explorers, poets, painters, foresters, conservationists, scientists (and engine drivers) – who have also been obsessed by these trees and who have championed their powers. Gum trees have been feted as a cure for malaria, as a solution for the drainage problems that defeated the Roman emperors, as the tree that could forest the Sahara, the tree that could divine gold. This new edition of Gum, from award-winning author Ashley Hay, is a powerful and lyrical exploration of these magical, mythical, medicinal trees, and the story of new worlds, curious people and big ideas.

ASHLEY HAY is a novelist and essayist whose awards include the Foundation for Australian Literary Studies' Colin Roderick Award, the NSW Premier's Literary Awards People's Choice, and the Bragg UNSW Press Prize for Science Writing. CHINESE HISTORY

Seen from Beijing, the world is gripped in a ferocious information war from which China's communist party must emerge the victor. It has reason to be confident.

Within China, the party controls all available information systems and outside the country it is spending big and recruiting local elites to spread 'good stories' about China among their own communities.

And yet in the open and competitive media environment of liberal democracies the party has suffered a number of tactical defeats, in which its influence and interference activities have been exposed. Beijing's monumental propaganda productions are a fragile edifice built on questionable assumptions about the role of the party in China's history, economy, language, culture and politics which collapse under scrutiny. One of the Communist Party's favourite conceits is that it has lifted 600 million people out of poverty. But who made China's people poor in the first place? And how does the party manage language and cultural symbols to secure own position domestically and internationally?

Clear, concise and urgent Cadre Nation is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the Chinese Communist Party and its influence.

FILM HISTORY / POPULAR CULTURE

Bright Lights is a multi-biography of film giants in Australia and America across the ages.

Australia has a long film history – in fact the world’s first feature film – The Story of the Kelly Gang – was made in Melbourne and released in 1906, running at a lean but landmark 60–70 minutes. Today, much of Australia’s film talent goes to the US, as individuals go looking for bigger and more lucrative opportunities overseas.

Errol Flynn, Peter Finch, David Gulpilil, and Nicole Kidman are the outsized personalities that form this book, and overcame geographical and cultural obstacles to star in some of the biggest films of their eras – among them The Adventures of Robin Hood, Network, Walkabout, Crocodile Dundee, and, for all intents and purposes, the entirety of Nicole Kidman’s filmography.

From the Golden Age of Hollywood in the 1930s until the streaming wars of today, the biographical detail of each of these figures tells a story about both Australia and America, and the larger story of the cultural exportation that transformed both countries and their cinemas.

SAM TWYFORD-MOORE is the author of The Rapids, which was published in Australia by NewSouth in 2018, and the University of Toronto Press in October 2020. The author is the founding host of The Rereaders, a fortnightly literary and cultural podcast. Telling a story is simple, right? You take a 'hero' character and send them on a 'journey'. There's a beginning, middle and an end.

But what if your story doesn't fit into that basic structure? In Beyond the Hero's Journey, BAFTA ward-winning screenwriter Anthony Mullins presents an accessible, versatile and easy-to-use book that teaches you the ins and outs of writing for screen through identifying and taking control of character arcs.

This book is for every writer who has felt frustrated by the neat confines of writing guides. It will teach you to explore and excel in telling more complex, intricate and authentic stories – and show you how to share your distinctive, original voice with the world.

TEACHING AND LEARNING

What does it mean to be an academic in today's rapidly changing world?

In The New Academic, Simon Clews offers a wealth of practical advice on how to write and speak in an entertaining, informative and, above all, accessible way. He will also help you to take care of the practicalities, the business if you like, of being a writer and communicator. Aimed at researchers at all levels of experience, this book will take you from the basics of writing and speaking, how to develop a public profile, gain traction online. This book will teach experts how to be front and centre in public debate so we can all benefit from their knowledge and make informed decisions about the things that matter. Funny, lively and constructive, this is your hands-on guidebook to excelling in academia.

SIMON CLEWS is a writer, editor, arts/literary event organiser and specialist trainer in written and oral communication. He currently is an Honorary (Senior Fellow) at the Peter Doherty Institute for Infection and Immunity, prior to which he spent 15 years as the Director of the Melbourne Engagement Lab at Melbourne University and 14 years as Festival Director/CEO of the Melbourne Writers Festival.

During Tasmania's gruesome Black War of 1823-31, Tongerlongeter led the most effective Aboriginal resistance campaign in Australian history. His Oyster Bay Nation of southeast Tasmania and his ally Montpelliatta's Big River Nation of central Tasmania embarked on 710 attacks, killing 182 colonists and wounding a further 176. First Nations casualties were up to three times greater and their population plummeted. Militarily it was a lost cause, yet in their dogged defence of Country, culture and each other, these artful warriors plunged the fledgling colony into a full blown crisis.

'This book does not remedy injustice, but it recognises it. It offers Tongerlongeter, his people and his allies respect, recognition and regret. May it be one of many such books.' — Bill Gammage

Inspired by the Uluru Statement from the Heart, and its statement that sovereignty 'has never been ceded or extinguished', influential historian Henry Reynolds revisits the very premise of the settlement of Australia and challenges us to do the same.

What if the sovereignty of Australia's First Nations was recognised by European international law in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries? What if the audacious British annexation of a whole continent was not seen as acceptable at the time and the colonial office in Britain understood that 'peaceful settlement' was a fiction? Truth-Telling shows exactly why our national war memorial must acknowledge the frontier wars, why we must change the date of our national day, and why treaties are important. Most of all, it makes urgently clear that the Uluru Statement is no rhetorical flourish but carries the weight of history and law and gives us a map for the future.

'Our goal of an honourable place in the nation for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people owes much to Henry Reynolds.' — Marcia Langton

In Artificial Intimacy, evolutionary biologist Rob Brooks takes us from the origins of human behaviour to the latest in artificially intelligent technologies, providing a fresh and original view of the very near future of human relationships.

Sex dollbots, digital lovers, virtual friends and algorithmic matchmakers help us manage our feelings in a world of cognitive overload. Apps can sense when a user is falling in love, when they are fighting, and when they are likely to break up. These machines, the 'artificial intimacies', already learn and exploit human social needs. They are getting better and faster at what they do

ROB BROOKS is an international expert on the conflicting evolutionary interests that make sex sizzle and render reproduction complex. He has won Australia's most prestigious award for science communication, the Eureka Prize, and is the author of Sex, Genes and Rock 'n' Roll: How evolution has shaped the modern world, which won the Queensland Literary Award for Science Writing. He is Scientia Professor of Evolution at UNSW, Sydney, where he founded and directed the Evolution and Ecology Research Centre.

In Stop Being Reasonable, philosopher Eleanor Gordon-Smith tells gripping true stories that show the limits of human reason. Susie realises her husband harbours a terrible secret, Dylan leaves the cult he's been raised in since birth, Alex discovers he can no longer return to his former identity after impersonating someone else on reality TV. All of them radically alter their beliefs about the things that matter most.

'I knew how piercingly smart Eleanor Gordon-Smith is, and what a curious and resolute interviewer. But I was unprepared for how entertainingly she writes! I read this with pleasure.' — Ira Glass

One of the age-old questions of philosophy is what does it mean to live a good life? In this extraordinary book, scholar and writer, Julianne van Loon, applies a range of philosophical ideas to her own experience. Van Loon engages with the work of six leading contemporary thinkers and writers — Rosi Braidotti, Nancy Holmstrom, Siri Hustvedt, Laura Kipnis, Julia Kristeva and Marina Warner — through interrogating and enlivening their ideas on love, play, fear, work, wonder and friendship.

Her journey is intellectual and deeply personal, political and intimate at once. It introduces readers to six extraordinary women whose own deeply thoughtful work has much to offer all of us. They may transform our own views of what it means to live a good life.

DR JULIENNE VAN LOON is the author of three critically acclaimed novels, Road Story, Beneath the Bloodwood Tree and Harmless. She lives in Melbourne, where she holds a Vice Chancellor's Senior Research Fellowship with the writing and publishing program at RMIT University. Julianne is an Honorary Fellow in Writing with the University of Iowa.

In Cosmic Chronicles, Fred Watson — Australia's Astronomer-at-Large and bestselling author — explores the hottest topics in space science and astronomy.

Watson presents the most up-to-date knowledge on everything from light echoing around the cosmos, the mechanics of black holes and how to navigate the hidden delights of nightfall, to the most profound questions facing humankind. With mind-bending stories from the frontiers of science, Cosmic Chronicles is an expert's view of what we know and how we know it.

FRED WATSON is Australia's first Astronomer-at-Large.
Recognised internationally for helping to pioneer the use of fibre optics in astronomy during the 1980s, Fred is best known today for his radio and TV broadcasts, books, and other ventures, which have earned him many awards. He even has an asteroid named after him (5691 Fredwatson), but says that if it hits the Earth, it won't be his fault.

When Rebecca Prince-Ruiz asked her colleagues this question in 2011, she had no idea that less than a decade later it would inspire a global movement of 250 million people in 177 countries to reduce their plastic use. Plastic Free tells the incredible story of how a simple community initiative grew into one of the world's most successful environmental movements. It also shares tips from people around the world who have taken on the Plastic Free July challenge and significantly reduced their waste.

Billion-dollar fines for Facebook. Cambridge Analytica.
Edward Snowden. Apps on our smartphones tracking our every move. Privacy may be a defining issue of our age, but it is also one of the least understood. Our digital world confuses what is public and what is private. Do old ethical and legal norms apply?

Sacha Molitorisz's rigorous and engaging books spells out
